A Note from the PAC Treasurer

I am pleased to announce the release of our 2012 Political Activities and Contributions report. At Prudential we are committed to operating openly and believe the best way to inform and educate how we do business is to communicate and provide transparency to our shareholders, customers, employees and other important stakeholders.

The decisions made by government have a tremendous impact on how Prudential operates as a public company and competes in the global marketplace. Accordingly, it is important that the company maintain a presence in the public policy arena to express viewpoints to legislators and regulators on key matters that impact how we operate as a business.

The Company sponsors a number of initiatives to help support an active profile in the legislative and regulatory processes. Such sponsored activities include direct engagements with state and federal lawmakers and regulators, establishing partnerships with trade organizations, operation of political action committees and, to a lesser extent, the use of corporate funds to support political organizations.

Our annual report provides detailed information on the Company sponsored political contributions and annual association dues, assessments and contributions to trade associations exceeding $50,000. The Company sponsored political action committees operate in accordance with all relevant state and federal laws. Further information about our political action committees are available on the Federal Election Commission website at fec.gov.

Prudential does not provide direct independent expenditures intended to support communications that expressly advocate the election or defeat of a candidate. In 2012, the Company did not contribute corporate funds to support any state or local ballot initiatives. Company policy prohibits contributing corporate funds to support candidate committees.

If you have any questions related to Prudential's political activities or contributions please submit an email to prudential.pac@prudential.com.

Sincerely,

Roman Gabriel
PAC Treasurer

Summary of Prudential Policies and Procedures for Political Activity

Prudential recognizes the importance of participation in the American democratic process, both by individuals and the Company. Prudential also values transparency in this process and appreciates the need for disclosure of its political activity in order to promote ethical corporate governance and participation in political processes and confidence in the American democratic process. Prudential's United States political contributions and those of its political action committees ("PACs" or "Prudential PACs") are made in accordance with federal and state campaign finance laws. Additionally, internal policies and standards adopted by the Company also govern political activity.

All employees are permitted to engage in political activities to the extent permitted by law, provided that they do so as individuals and not as representatives of the Company. Certain personal political contributions of employees and family members are prohibited or restricted under Company policy in order to comply with federal, state and local "pay-to-play" laws pertaining to contributions by vendors to the public sector. Prudential prohibits individual political contributions for the purpose of influencing or attempting to influence the award of business to Prudential businesses.

Prudential does not directly contribute financial or other assistance to candidates for public office. In accordance with federal, state, and local campaign finance laws, Prudential may provide corporate political contributions to state political party committees or other committees. Prudential will not contribute financial or other support to U.S. political parties, committees, or candidates for public office or support other organizations except where approved by External Affairs in consultation with the Law Department. All corporate contributions, if made, will be included in the annual report.

Likewise, Prudential may also contribute to 527 groups or super PACs in accordance with all federal, state, and local campaign finance laws. Such contributions will be approved by External Affairs in consultation with the Law Department and, if made, will be disclosed in the annual report.

Prudential sponsors PACs to which eligible employees working in the United States may make contributions. Such contributions are strictly voluntary, and the Company and its management will not penalize anyone for electing not to participate.

Political contributions made by Prudential PACs serve the purpose of providing a voice for Prudential employees so that they may participate in the American democratic process. Prudential PACs support candidates from both major political parties who share Prudential's vision and values of protecting retirement, savings, investment and insurance needs of all Americans. Political contribution determinations are made by the Prudential Financial, Inc. Political Action Committee Board of Directors in consultation with Prudential's External Affairs Department and are executed by the Administrator and Treasurer of the Prudential PACs.

A complete membership listing of the Prudential PAC Board is included on page 6. The board meets once per year at a minimum. The PAC Administrator, Treasurer and Board of Directors are responsible for managing and administering all Prudential PACs U.S. political contribution activities, including making final decisions as to political contributions made by the PACs.

Summary of Prudential Policies and Procedures for Political Activity

Prudential's United States political contributions and those of its political action committees are made in accordance with federal, state, and local campaign finance laws in an effort to promote the interests and public policy positions of Prudential Financial Inc. Additionally, internal policies and standards adopted by the company also govern Prudential's political activity.

The External Affairs Department, in conjunction with the Compliance Department, is responsible for maintaining Prudential's internal policies and procedures relating to U.S. political activities. Prudential and Prudential's PACs properly report political contributions and lobbying expenditures to the public through the means prescribed by state and federal governmental authorities.

Prudential employees who are registered as lobbyists on behalf of the Company must also comply with Company procedures for tracking and reporting activities and related expenses involving dealings with public officials and employees. Prudential lobbyists also are required to behave in a manner that meets and exceeds generally accepted standards of conduct of the profession. In their dealings with public officials and employees, all Prudential employees are required to comply with the Company's policies on political activities, lobbying and gifts and entertainment.
